Introduction

The Immigration Services Commissioner has a duty to ensure that those who provide immigration advice or immigration services are competent to do so. This Guidance sets out the standards advisers should meet in order to be considered competent. It is the third edition and has been revised in the light of feedback from the immigration sector and our experience during our first three years of operation.

What do we mean by competence?

When we use this term, we mean the skills and knowledge that each adviser must demonstrate in order to show that they are able to provide good quality advice and services. The detailed competence requirements are contained in this document starting on page 6.

The OISC measures competence at two distinct ways, first in the Statement of Competence submitted by each adviser as part of an application and second, on audit. In the Statement of Competence advisers can demonstrate that they meet the competence requirements in different ways, through a combination of the number of years of experience they have, professional development (including in-house or external training), access to up-dated information on changes in law and procedures etc. Where an adviser is relatively new and has limited practical experience, for example, the OISC will focus more closely on what professional development has been undertaken.

On audit, the OISC staff will look at client files to take an initial view as to the competence of the adviser. They have access to expert immigration consultants where they wish to look into an adviser's competence in greater depth.

At the time of publishing, work on verbal and formal written competence assessments was still on going and subject to consultation.

OISC Advice Levels

The OISC has divided immigration advice and services into three levels of activity depending on the complexity of the work involved. The competence requirements increase with the complexity of the work. In this way the OISC aims to ensure that advisers who only provide initial advice may continue to do so. Details of the types of work permitted at each level begin on page 5.

Are you providing immigration advice or immigration services?

The definition of immigration advice and immigration services is set out in section 82 of the Immigration and Asylum Act 1999. Immigration advice:

- relates to an individual; and

OFFICE OF THE IMMIGRATION SERVICES COMMISSIONER

THE OISC GUIDANCE ON COMPETENCE: DRAFT

- is given in connection with a relevant immigration matter.

Immigration services means the making of representations on behalf of a particular individual:

- in civil proceedings before a court, tribunal, or immigration judge in the United Kingdom; and
- in correspondence with a Minister of the Crown or a government department.

Please note that the OISC only regulates those who provide immigration advice and services that address an individual's particular circumstances. If your work is restricted to signposting or the provision of general information, you do not need to apply to the OISC for regulation.

The following are examples of the kinds of work we do not regulate:

- providing general information or leaflets on the immigration and asylum systems; and
- directing individuals in need of immigration advice to an adviser.

Please contact us if you have any queries about whether you come within the OISC scheme.

Summary of OISC Levels of Advice

A summary of the work permitted at each OISC level is given below. A detailed explanation of each level begins on page 6.

OISC Levels

The three levels of immigration advice that the OISC uses are as follows:

- Level 1 – Initial Advice
- Level 2 - Casework
- Level 3 – Advocacy (1)

(1)

The chart on the opposite page outlines the types of immigration work permitted at each OISC level.

Additional information

Levels and Types of Work

Advisers working at a particular level do not need to be competent in all the categories of work permitted at that level. For example, at Level 2 someone providing immigration advice and/or services on nationality issues does not have to be competent at Level 2 in EU and EEA work. However, all advisers at Levels 2 and 3 must be competent in all areas permitted at Level 1 regardless of the areas of their competence at Level 2 or 3. This means, for example, that a business immigration specialist working at Level 3 is expected to be competent in nationality or EEA work at Level 1.

Also, advisers do not need to undertake all aspects of the work permitted to obtain permission to provide advice or services at a particular level. For example, at Level 2, an adviser is allowed to lodge appeals but does not have to do this in order to be permitted to work at this level.

Working under Supervision (2)

Code 55 of the Commissioner's Code of Standards contains a general prohibition on advisers working beyond the level at which they have been registered.

Nevertheless, the Commissioner recognises that the most effective means by which advisers can move up from one level of competence to another, or from one area of work to another, is through training while being effectively supervised; therefore, advisers are allowed to work up to the next level if being supervised in accordance with Codes 21-28 of the Code of Standards.

OFFICE OF THE IMMIGRATION SERVICES COMMISSIONER

THE OISC GUIDANCE ON COMPETENCE: DRAFT

The level of supervision necessary will vary depending on the training and experience of the supervisee, but initially at least it should be very close. The supervisor should be on the same premises as the supervisee and the latter should be submitting all work produced at the higher level to the supervisor for examination and correction. There must be a system in place for ensuring that corrective action is taken where necessary and the entire process must be properly documented.

The supervisor should actively monitor or oversee the work of the supervisee, not simply serve as a source of second-tier advice.

It is envisaged that there should be some system of staged progression involving a series of assessments of the supervisee's performance to determine whether he or she is ready to move to the next stage. As the supervisee's training progresses, so the degree of supervision can be reduced.

For example, where a Level 1 adviser is being trained to accompany clients on Home Office interviews, the adviser may begin by accompanying a senior adviser; then attending in the company of a senior adviser; finally, going unaccompanied, but being fully briefed before and de-briefed afterwards and the supervisor checking the interview record.

It is to be expected that this process will generally result in the supervisee becoming fully competent at the higher level. It should not usually become a permanent arrangement.

Code of Standards

This document should be read alongside the Code of Standards. The Code details the organisational standards that the OISC has set for advisers. There are some sections of the Code that relate closely to providing competent advice and services.

Advisers should ensure that they comply with the following:

- Referrals and Signposting, Codes 12–15, 16 (h)
- Supervision, Codes 16 (g), (i), (k) and 21–28 (where appropriate)
- Record-keeping and file management, Codes 29-36
- Client Confidentiality, Codes 16 (o) and 40
- Conflict of Interest, Codes 41–42
- Client's Interest, Code 49
- Competence, Codes 55, 57-58
- Training and Resources, Codes 16 (j), (q) and 56–60

OISC Level 1 – Initial Advice

Work permitted at Level 1

At this level, applications within the Immigration Rules are permitted as listed below. Where cases become complicated or an application is refused, an adviser must refer a client to a higher-level adviser as soon as possible. A case may become complicated, for example, where the Home Office question the validity of evidence or call a client in for an interview. Level 1 advisers can only work on leave to remain applications where the client has outstanding leave. An adviser at Level 1 must establish whether a client already has a more qualified legal representative. Where this is so, the Level 1 adviser must check with that adviser before carrying out any work and copy relevant information to that adviser. The type of work that might be carried out in these circumstances will always be administrative e.g. notifying the Home Office of a client's change of address.

Asylum

No work is allowed at this level. (8)

(8)

Applications for entry clearance, leave to enter or leave to remain

WORK PERMITTED:

BASIC applications that are within the Immigration Rules in the following categories:

- visitors;
- students;
- spouses/unmarried partners;
- other family members;
- immigration employment documents (including work permits); and
- other applications such as au pair, postgraduate medical/dental training, private medical treatment.

WORK NOT PERMITTED: (9)

(9)

Applications involving detailed representations & follow-up correspondence such as:

- applications for Indefinite Leave to Remain on the ground of long residence in the UK (14 years continuous residence);
- applications for settlement on grounds of domestic violence;
- applications for further leave to remain/settlement in respect of adopted children;
- applications that are not within the Immigration Rules.

Illegal entrants, overstayers, removal or deportation from the UK

No work is permitted at Level 1.

THE OISC GUIDANCE ON COMPETENCE: DRAFT

Nationality and Citizenship under UK law

Basic applications for:

- naturalisation as a British Citizen; and
- registration as a British Citizen.

EU and EEA immigration law

Basic applications for the following:

- residence permit for an EU/EEA national;
- family permit for a non-EU/EEA family member;
- entry clearance for non-EU/EEA family member; and
- Workers Registration Scheme (10)

(10)

Detention, applications for temporary admission, CIO bail and Immigration Judge bail

No work is permitted at Level 1. A client must be referred on to a higher-level adviser as soon as possible.

Competence Requirements

Advisers at this level need to demonstrate the following:

Knowledge

1. Sufficient knowledge of immigration and asylum law to identify:
 - that a client is subject to immigration control;
 - possible immigration categories that might apply;
 - relevant forms and procedures that apply;
 - the requirements of the Immigration Rules that must be satisfied in respect of a particular application (11)
 - relevant time limits; and
 - urgent situations.
2. Clear understanding of the limits to the adviser's knowledge and competence and of when to refer a case on. This includes a general knowledge of immigration and asylum work and procedures, particularly in relation to illegal entrants and overstayers, to ensure that a client can be referred appropriately.
3. Knowledge of the types of evidence needed to support cases and how to obtain this.
4. Awareness of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR), particularly Articles 3 and 8, and the Human Rights Act 1998 (HRA) in order to identify cases that should be referred on.

(12)

Skills and Aptitudes (12)

1. Ability to draft letters and complete application forms clearly and accurately in English, using the correct terminology and enclosing the appropriate evidence or a clear explanation why it has not been provided.

2. Sufficient verbal communication and interpersonal skills to:
 - identify to whom an enquiry relates to, establish their wishes and intentions and the relevant facts of the case;
 - communicate advice clearly to a client, giving reasons, and explaining any other options;
 - inform the client of what steps they and the adviser need to take including urgent action; and
 - communicate effectively in English with the IND and other agencies.

3. The ability to identify appropriate resources (e.g. textbooks, internet) and use them effectively. (13) (13)

4. Awareness of and a commitment to follow, established good practice. (14) (14)

5. The ability to act with an appropriate sense of urgency. (15) (15)

6. The ability to maintain clear, comprehensive, accurate and structured records. (16) (16)

OISC Level 2 – Casework

Work permitted at Level 2

At this level, more complex applications in all categories are permitted as well as applications outside the Immigration Rules and applications under Home Office concessionary or discretionary policies.. An adviser at this level can submit One-Stop Notices and lodge appeals on initial grounds but must then refer the case to a higher-level adviser.

The following additional work is permitted at Level 2:

- Applications to the IND, including asylum and human rights applications and concessionary or discretionary applications.
- Applications for Humanitarian Protection/Discretionary Leave (17). (17)
- Representing clients in correspondence with the IND and at IND interviews.
- Representations to the IND in support of cases.
- Drafting client statements, including asylum statements.
- Submitting One-Stop Notices.
- Lodging appeals.
- Applications for temporary admission and Chief Immigration Officer's bail.
- Family reunion applications
- Representations regarding on-going immigration or asylum casework to MPs (18) (18)
- Instructing a barrister or advocate for advice and to draft appropriate grounds of appeal (where permitted by the Bar Council).

Competence requirements

Advisers at this Level, in addition to the competences required at Level 1 (page 5), need to demonstrate the following:

Knowledge

1. Detailed knowledge of immigration and nationality law including:
 - grounds for applications;
 - IND practice in the consideration of cases;
 - IND concessionary/discretionary policies;
 - grounds for lodging initial appeals including human rights grounds; and
 - procedures for human rights applications e.g. One-Stop Notices.
2. Detailed knowledge of relevant rights of appeal, time limits and procedures up to and including the lodging of the appeal and an awareness of relevant rights of appeal, time limits and procedures at the later stages of the appeal process.
3. A working knowledge of relevant case law and precedents and how to access and use them effectively when making representations on the client's behalf. (19) (19)
4. Detailed knowledge of the types of evidence needed to support appeals, discretionary applications and applications outside the Immigration Rules and how to obtain this; also the relative weight to be attached to different types of evidence.

OFFICE OF THE IMMIGRATION SERVICES COMMISSIONER

THE OISC GUIDANCE ON COMPETENCE: DRAFT

5. Detailed knowledge of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) and the Human Rights Act 1998 (HRA) and other relevant law.
6. Where an adviser is working on asylum cases, they must have a detailed knowledge of asylum legislation and procedures including the 1951 Refugee Convention, its 1967 Protocol and the UNHCR Handbook for Determining Refugee Status.
7. Where an adviser is working on bail and detention cases, knowledge of the powers of the immigration authorities to grant bail or temporary admission, procedures for obtaining bail and IND practice in the consideration of cases, including an awareness of the factors that must be taken into account when detaining an individual for immigration reasons. (20) (20)
8. Clear understanding of the limits to the adviser's knowledge and competence and of when to refer cases on. This includes a general knowledge of immigration, asylum and nationality law and procedure to ensure that a client can be referred on for advice in areas in which the adviser is not qualified at Level 2. Advisers at Level 2 must be competent in all areas of work permitted at Level 1.

Skills and Aptitudes

Interviewing and advising (21) (21)

Sufficient verbal and written communication skills so as to;

- Engender trust in a client
- Ask relevant questions, employing different techniques to access relevant information
- Obtain clear, detailed instructions statements and case histories
- Deal sensitively with vulnerable or traumatised clients
- Make clear, pertinent and effective oral and written representations to IND and other agencies on the client's behalf

(23)

Analytical and advocacy skills (23)

The ability to:

- identify the primary and secondary issues presented by a client's case and the applicable laws or policies
- adequately assess the merits of cases presented
- make clear, cogent oral and written representations in support of cases,
- to identify and use the most appropriate sources of up to date information on case law and other specialised subjects in support of cases
- ability to identify the salient points in an argument and to respond to them effectively
- identify the evidence required to support a case and to evaluate the relative weight of the evidence
- represent a client effectively at IND interviews
- identify where referral to other professionals may be appropriate and to instruct appropriate experts
- where applicable, obtain and effectively challenge reasons for detention, using human rights legislation where appropriate and do so in the course of a bail hearing where necessary.

Record-keeping and File Management (24)

(24)

The ability to:

- maintain clear, accurate records of IND interviews and legal proceedings
- maintain clear, comprehensive and well organised case files and an organised and accessible file management system.
- maintain clear, accurate and comprehensive records of contacts with the client or third parties and other relevant matters.

OISC Level 3 –Advocacy (25)

Work permitted at Level 3

Some advocacy work is permitted at Level 2; for example, a Level 2 adviser may make written and oral representations to the IND. However, it is only possible to represent clients at appeal hearings before an immigration judge at the Asylum and Immigration Tribunal at Level 3. Level 3 work is any work done pursuant to the lodging of the notice of appeal against refusal, as well as the conduct of specialist casework e.g. challenging existing case law, third country asylum cases. It requires a high level of knowledge of immigration law and practice, including a thorough conversance with relevant case law, human rights legislation and also asylum law where applicable. Level 3 advisers should also be aware of rights and procedures connected with judicial/statutory review, although they are not permitted to represent clients in proceedings in higher courts, nor to instruct counsel to do so. (26)

(26)

OFFICE OF THE IMMIGRATION SERVICES COMMISSIONER

THE OISC GUIDANCE ON COMPETENCE: DRAFT

Work permitted at Level 3 includes:

- conduct of specialist casework;
- preparation of cases in the AIT including drafting full grounds of appeal;
- representing clients before the AIT; and
- instructing a barrister or advocate to appear at the AIT (where permitted by the Bar Council).

Competence requirements

Advisers at this Level, in addition to the competences required at Level 1 (page 5) and 2 (pages 6-7) need to demonstrate the following:

Knowledge

1. Detailed knowledge of immigration, asylum and nationality law including:
 - grounds for complex applications in the areas of work in which advice/services are provided;
 - IND and AIT practice in the consideration of appeals and complex cases;
 - IND concessionary/discretionary policies in complex cases; and
 - grounds of appeal to the AIT including human rights and race relations grounds.
2. Detailed knowledge of relevant rights of appeal, time limits and procedures in the AIT, up to and including full hearings before the AIT; sufficient awareness of rights and procedures in relation to judicial/statutory review to make appropriate referrals to a solicitor (27).
3. A sufficiently thorough knowledge of relevant case law and precedents to be able to identify and make good use of appropriate case law to support a client's case, anticipate and respond effectively to the citing of precedents by the immigration authorities and do so during a hearing where necessary; also sufficient knowledge and skill to be able to challenge existing case law where appropriate (28).
4. A sufficiently thorough knowledge of the types of evidence needed to support complex cases and appeals up to AIT Level and how to obtain this.
5. A sufficiently thorough knowledge of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR), the Human Rights Act 1998 (HRA), the Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000 and other relevant international law relating to immigration and asylum cases, to be able to make effective and appropriate representations using this legislation in complex cases and appeals up to AIT Level (29).
6. Clear understanding of the limits to the adviser's knowledge and competence and of how to refer cases on. This includes a general knowledge of immigration, asylum and nationality law and procedure to ensure that a client can be referred on for advice in areas in which the adviser is not qualified at Level 3. Advisers at Level 3 must be competent in all areas of work permitted at Level 1.

Skills and Aptitudes

Interviewing and Advising (30) (30)

The ability to explain clearly to the client in plain language the progress of their case, including the progress of any appeal, the outcome of the hearing, the implications for the client and the options open to them; advise on the merits of further appeals and take clear instructions from the client as to how they wish to proceed.

Drafting (31) (31)

Ability to draft in clear, written English, making use of case law and human rights legislation where appropriate:

- complex applications;
- complex letters, statements and representations;
- full grounds of appeal to the AIT;
- witness statements;
- skeleton arguments and other relevant documents for AIT cases;
- instructions to a barrister or advocate; and
- statements and other relevant documentation for higher court work.

Analytical and Advocacy Skills (32) (32)

Where the adviser wishes to represent clients at hearings before the AIT, sufficient verbal and written advocacy skills to do so effectively, including the ability to:

- make clear, cogent oral and written representations in the course of legal proceedings;
- identify when it is appropriate to apply for an adjournment of a hearing;
- identify the salient points in an argument and respond to them effectively, in the course of a legal hearing where necessary;
- re-evaluate evidence in the light of representations from IND;
- anticipate and respond effectively to the citing of precedents by the immigration authorities, in the course of a hearing where necessary;
- challenge existing case law where appropriate;
- make effective and appropriate representations in appeal proceedings using European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR), the Human Rights Act 1998 (HRA), the Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000 and other relevant

OFFICE OF THE IMMIGRATION SERVICES COMMISSIONER

THE OISC GUIDANCE ON COMPETENCE: DRAFT

- international law relating to immigration and asylum cases;
- accurately assess the merits of referring a case to a solicitor for judicial/statutory review proceedings.

Whilst Level 3 advisers may have the ability to draft statements and other relevant documentation for higher court hearings they must not represent or seek to represent clients in higher courts. The Court and Legal Services Act and The Solicitors' Act govern rights of audience in higher courts. These Acts deny a right of audience to those that are not legal professionals except in certain circumstances, such as where a judge has allowed a right of audience as a McKenzie Friend. An OISC regulated adviser, who by definition provides immigration advice and / or services in the course of a business, must not seek to appear as a McKenzie Friend. OISC regulated representatives must not seek to appear unless they have rights of audience under the primary legislation noted above.

Record-keeping and Case Management (33)

(33)

Excellent record keeping and case management skills, including the ability to:

- collate a well-organised and well-presented hearing bundle;
- manage a busy schedule, including a diary of required attendances at legal hearings and deal effectively with conflicting priorities while protecting the client's best interests;
- maintain a clear record of case conferences with counsel and the client, including any discussion of the options open to the client, the merits of any appeal, the implications for the client and any further instructions taken.
